Elvira has had 18-years of HR experience in corporate organizations in which she collaborated with senior level management to develop department heads and their teams.

Partnering closely with people who were searching for new career opportunities, she helped to discover their main goal in life, motivation and best skills to become successful.

Through the process of designing developing and implementing training programs, Elvira has helped people to develop their skills in personnel management, personal effectiveness, and sales technics.

While consulting with large corporations, she has been a central figure in creating management reserves and assisting in assessing and vetting those reserves.

She trained students in a leadership development project as a volunteer.

As a coach Elvira works with clients all over the world, helps clients determine their direction in life, how to achieve their goals, and helps the client find resources within themselves.

Currently Elvira is an entrepreneur, a member of ICF Czechia, partner of the international coaching center Istok in the Czech Republic, coach and trainer of international coaching programs.
